Kamarck’s book on The End of Government as We Know It introduces the idea of a new way governing – “one that is more modern, more flexible, and less bureaucratic. It shows how, by looking beyond the bureaucratic option, we can increase the capacity and effectiveness of government in the twenty-first century.”

She identifies three models. Describe TWO models in light of the above statement.

- Reinvented Public Sector Organisations
- Government by Network
- Government by Market

[Do not limit your discussion of the above to Kamarck, but include other material covered during the course]